ELECTRICITY MAKES CHICKENS GROW FAST

A long succession of ingenious experiments has recently been privately made in regard to the effect of electricity upon the growth of plants and animals, and according to the London Daily Mail, it is now possible to say that startling results have been reached in one direction.

Beyond all question young poultry respond to electric stimulus applied in a particular way with astounding rapidity. They surpass the best on record in speed of growth. They keep their health in crowded conditions, and become almost independent of season.

In the south of England, on the biggest poultry farm in the world, experiments of this nature have just been completed. Eight hundred chickens in two equal groups were nurtured on the intensive system—that is, in flats, at most trays, one above the other. One group of 400 was treated by the electric system and so charged were the chickens with electricity that a shock could be distinctly felt if the finger were put to the back of a chicken.

The chickens in this 400 grew to marketable size—that is, as "poussins"—in five weeks, and of the 400 only six, and those weaklings in the beginning, died.

Of the other 400 nearly half died, it being late in the year for healthy growth, and the survivors took three months to reach marketable size.

This experiment was followed by other experiments in which similar, though not such striking results were obtained. Trials on a yet larger scale are being prepared, and there is at any rate, a reasonable hope that an instrument of real value in the intensive production of food has been found.

MOTHER IS SUPPOSED TO BE CURED OF INSANITY BY MEANS OF RADIUM RAYS IN THIS PRODUCTION.

"BY RADIUM RAYS"
A Universal Photoplay

Lately, the newspapers throughout the country have been full of news respecting the wonderful substance, radium, the many uses it can be put to in a curable way. These discoveries, piling upon one another, have stimulated wide discussion by prominent people until we have come to that stage where one might say that the country was "radium mad."

Insanity is the problem that is dealt with in this play, "By Radium's Rays." True, the scientists have not come to that stage where they can safely say that insanity can be cured by radium, but there has been a suggestion along this line.

A story of twin brothers—Jim, honest and steadfast, and Tom, a ne'er-do-well. Both are in love with Sarah, daughter of an old miner. She is cold to the suit of the worthy brother, while she loves Tom and promises to be his wife.

The brothers own a claim known as the "Twin Brothers' Mine." Believing it to be worthless, they give it to Sarah and her father. As he has lost the girl he loves, Jim leaves. Sarah's father works the mine.

During the early part of his married life, Tom goes from bad to worse. And finally he steals a shipment of gold en route to the United States mint. After hiding it in the "Twin Brothers' Mine," he is captured. He refuses to divulge the hiding place of the stolen gold and is sentenced to 15 years in prison. In addition to this trouble Sarah's baby dies. These multiplied sorrows cause her to lose her reason. She is removed to an insane asylum.

At this time there a great popular interest in the new radium process of a celebrated pathologist who claims he can cure 75 per cent of all insanity cases treated by his method.

Jim and Sarah's father visit the insane girl. The father shows her some new samples of ore from the claim. The insane girl is so struck with it that they allow her to retain it.

The pathologist tells Jim that her reason can be restored by the radium process but that the cure will be expensive.

Jim then visits Tom, the convict and explains the situation. Tom cannot direct his brother to the hiding place of the stolen money, and as a consequence Jim offers to change places with him. The exchange is effected and Tom goes for the money.

By a strange trick of fate Sarah's case is chosen for demonstration treatment. She is cured. The pathologist discovers that the ore left with Sarah by her father is rich in radium. They go to the mine to make further investigation. A blast is set off. Tom is inside looking for the stolen money. He is fatally wounded by the blast, but before he dies, he confesses concerning the prison episode. All hurry to the prison to secure Jim's liberty.

WOMAN KIDNAPER IS RELEASED BY COURT.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.] Chicago, March 16.—Mrs. Harriet Janney, a wealthy Philadelphia widow, arrested here last night on a charge of kidnapping her granddaughter, Virginia Ford, was released on her own recognizance this afternoon by Judge Walker. Virginia was given into the custody of her grandmother until tomorrow, when the court will rule on Mrs. Janney's alibi and corpus application.

Judge Walker will not decide on the application until the arrival of William Ford, the girl's father, from Philadelphia. Ford preferred the kidnapping charge against Mrs. Janney.

battle of the present rebellion was believed here today to be in progress at Terreon. Communication was severed. The latest news received here came through three railroad men, arrived from Terreon, who said that when they left the rebels were shelling the town. For giving out this information all three men were arrested. Foreign residents here were clamoring vainly for more news.

THROW AWAY YOUR EYEGLASSES

A FREE PRESCRIPTION.

You Can Have Fitted and Use at Home.

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eyestrain or other eye-weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me."

A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days, everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona, fill a two ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet, and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you even a little take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.
